The garment designs--unlike most crocheted garment designs--show a lot of drape, and even show nice shaping in long sleeves. Clearly designer Shannon Mullett-Bowlsby has approached his designing task by first considering the characteristics of crocheted fabric, and then thinking--a lot--about how best to use that type of fabric in each garment. My favorite designs are (1) Bangkok (the cover design), a tunic using a lovely diagonal triangle pattern for the textured fabric; (2) Milan, a sleeveless top with a drapery bodice and cowl neck; (3) Amsterdam, a simple, tailored, open-front vest; (4) Seattle, a drape-front vest with long panels in front for draping or tying (that can even be worn upside-down!); and (5) NYC, a strapless, body-hugging sheath dress formed from square black-and-white motifs. But I like nearly all of the designs, which are quite in line with current fashion. Most of the designs have written-out directions for multiple sizes, usually

Small to 3X. Many designs have schematic drawings showing the finished measurements, to help you achieve the correct gauge, size, and fit. There are also a few pages of general crocheting instructions included at the end. Each of the designs has multiple full-color photographs that not only show important details in close-up, but also show the garments being worn in more than one pose. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful.
