5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Too many typos add confusion but otherwise a good tutorial. By Awkward Mommy Too many typos to understand. This is something I'd gladly offer to edit and proofread for free, as I believe the writer is doing a great service by offering her book for free. However, if I'd have paid for this I would be requesting a refund for the numerous typos alone. Other terms such as "electronic blender" just add confusion to the reader, as the writer shows pictures of a stick blender ("electric"). Other than the issue with language, it's an informative, helpful read with good recipes and sage advice. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Less than basic By Chris Miller This is less than basic. Very general information. More common sense than anything else. Makes suggestions but doesn't elaborate. Has 5 recipes at the end, but I'm not sure I'd trust making them. Glad this was free... 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. An enjoyable and enticing venture into soapmaking. By Matoaka Eagle Reader friendly with clear step by step directions and with safety precautions seamlessly incorporated. Beautifully and simply illustrated. I would have liked more information on where to get supplies and equipment and tips on easy ways to clean up.

Soap Making: How to Make Soap Quickly and Professionally at Home Soap as we all know is meant for cleaning. We have variety of soaps available in the market and they come in various forms, shapes and sizes. When it comes to natural soaps we all know how we love it. Natural soaps have natural elements and the well loved essential elements and non toxic ingredients. For most of us natural soap means avoiding the hateful chemicals, artificial dyes, fragrances, or artificial additives. Some people make soaps at home as a hobby and have you wondered how easily they do it! You must have known people who make luxurious soaps and gift it too. Till now you have wondered about their talent, however, it is no talent. It is just experience and you can be as good as they are and have your favorite fragrances and ingredients to enjoy a luxurious bath. Why not create something that you and your friends going to love. Even the little ones, because you know what you are going to put into your soap that is good for child or your friends children. Soap making is a controlled and steady process and has some basic and other optional ingredients. The main ingredients are oil and lye, or Sodium Hydroxide, and the two make a bond to make your dream soap.
