John I. Carney : Soapstone before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Soapstone:

Jeff Doerman goes to Africa to help others, but finds himself changed in this lively novella. Will Jeff be able to teach soapmaking to the people of the Kibera slums outside Nairobi? Only with faith, and the help of his teammates, will he be able to make it through two weeks in a place unlike any he's seen before.

About the Author John I. Carney is city editor of the Shelbyville (Tenn.) Times-Gazette, a certified United Methodist layspeaker, and a veteran of numerous short-term international mission trips.
