Mara Nieves Zedeo : Sourcing Prehistoric Ceramics at Chodistaas Pueblo, Arizona: The Circulation of People and Pots in the Grasshopper Region (Anthropological Papers) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Sourcing Prehistoric Ceramics at Chodistaas Pueblo, Arizona: The Circulation of People and Pots in the Grasshopper Region (Anthropological Papers):

For decades archaeologists have used pottery to reconstruct the lifeways of ancient populations. It has become increasingly evident, however, that to make inferences about prehistoric economic, social, and political activities through the patterning of ceramic variation, it is necessary to determine the location where the vessels were made. Through detailed analysis of manufacturing technology and design styles as well as the use of modern analytical techniques such as neutron activation analysis, Zedeo here demonstrates a broadly applicable methodology for identifying local and nonlocal ceramics.

It has become increasingly evident, however, that to make inferences about prehistoric economic, social, and political activities through the patterning of ceramic variation, it is necessary to determine the location where the vessels were made. Through detailed analysis of manufacturing technology and design styles as well as the use of modern analytical techniques such as neutron activation analysis, ZedeAo here demonstrates a broadly applicable methodology for identifying local and nonlocal ceramics.From the Back CoverThis book begins with a critical history of ceramic studies in the Southwest and the ways in which the evolution of archaeological theory and method shaped and continue to shape such studies, in particular those addressing ceramic manufacture and circulation.
